S4F: Macbeth on Trial

In English, S4F have been studying Shakespeare's "Macbeth"; this week we brought Macbeth back to life and took him to court to be tried for murder. The Prosecution and Defence sides each presented their case with witnesses who were cross-examined, and finally Macbeth himself was questioned. Our very own school Judge (Mme Champod) finally gave her judgement: Macbeth was found guilty.

Science Week 2021

In S1 Science - we have been looking at physical and behavioural adaptations in plants and animals. The students designed their own adapted animals, then modelled them and explained their adaptations to the class. Dr Keymer

S7 chemistry students grinding up red cabbage to make a vegetable dye. Dr Greenwood

Physics

It has been great having students back in labs be able to engage with actual experiments, rather than viewing You Tube clips! In Physics this week we were diffracting electrons with S7, diffracting light and interfering light, microwaves and sound with S6, observing alpha, beta and gamma radiation in S5 and investigating simple electric circuits in S4. - Dr Down

S1F Art have been working on a project about the Inuit culture.

They have been learning about the Inuit folklore and visual arts.

Here, the children are painting animals that feature in the folklore tales, using various media. - Ms Linsley

Carnegie Tea with S2:

What energy from our Carnegie shadowers! Through various activities, they discovered what books are on the shortlist and got stuck right into it!
