

OXJAM OXFORD 2017

Hi,

My name is Max Blansjaar (S4) and I am organizing a gig for Oxfam on Sunday, 5th November. The event is part of the annual 'Oxjam' festivals - a series of festivals that are organized up and down the country in aid of Oxfam.

I've organized the event partly due to my love of music (the bands that are performing are some of my favourite local artists - some have even performed at festivals such as Truck and Common People), and partly due to the opportunity of supporting a brilliant anti-poverty charity like Oxfam.

My event has already got lots of publicity in the local media: The Oxford Mail wrote an article about it (oxfordmail.co.uk/news/15585415.Max_14_organises_his_first_gig_for_Oxjam_Oxford/), as did Nightshift Magazine.

I am writing to share the details of the event with you, in the hope that I will see lots of you there. I have attached the event poster which has all the important information on it, too.

The gig will take place on Sunday, 5th November from 15:00 to 18:00 (doors open at 14:30).

The venue is the Tap Social Movement, an all-ages community space (with plenty of parking) in Botley. The address:

27

Curtis Industrial Estate
North Hinksey Lane
Oxford
OX2 0LX

Tickets are £5 for over-12s, under-12s go free - you can get tickets online or on the door. Under-16s should be accompanied by an adult.

Tickets, as well as more information, can be found at oxjamgigmakers.nutickets.com/35879.

I hope to see lots of you there to share a great afternoon of music and merriment!

Thanks,

Max
